

The Last Mile in Making Private Jet Ownership Affordable Lesnik and Avon Aviation Remove Burden of Corrosion Coverage

WESTON, FL. (April 26, 2015) – The last mile in private jet ownership is the exposure faced by owners for airframe corrosion of their jets. This risk is substantial and typically unavoidable. That is, before Gary Lesnik’s Avon Aviation negotiated a deal on behalf of owners with the largest Non-Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM) in the world for corrosion coverage.

“Most jet buyers cannot avoid this risk and typically expensive back end cost. Corrosion occurs it is unavoidable, ” said Gary Lesnik, Principal of Avon Aviation, LLC.

“So, we help buyers protect their investment by negotiating an insurance option for corrosion coverage. This has the potential to save owners potentially hundreds of thousands of dollars in airframe corrosion cost repairs and lost plane value, “ Lesnik maintains.

Avon Aviation is Gary Lesnik’s full service private jet management company that helps in all aspects of owning private aircraft, from sourcing the aircraft, to “We help owners negotiate the purchase, not only assisting with typically hard to obtain financing but also innovative insurance options to minimize risk of ownership, “ said Lesnik. “”But , “ Mr. Lesnik maintains, “our work and value, doesn’t stop there, as we help enroll the aircraft into a lease program that guarantees unequivocally owners with a revenue stream. This contract with a large national carrier with whom we have a long term relationship enables owners to offset much of the cost of ownership, enabling owners to fly at cost and at the same time generating contractually guaranteed monthly revenue.”

Avon Aviation is able to leverage their jet expertise and relationships for all aspects of the private jet ownership and pass that value on to the owner in terms of better financing options and guaranteed monthly revenue through an innovative lease programs.

So, as Avon Aviation’s Gary Lesnik, likes to say, “The last mile is the toughest. It is the one that separates owners from passengers. The last mile is corrosion coverage. Once we removed that risk, owners can now get into their plane with the confidence that there will be no hidden back end cost that would otherwise cripple their budget for owning and keep most potential buyers from getting their dream jet. “
